RECREATION BUILDING USE

Nonprofit Clubs: City Rules 'Free' Ride

By PATRICIA REID
Of The News Staff

Upland City Council agreed not to charge nonprofit community organizations for use of the new Recreation Building in Magnolia Park Monday night and voted to leave the question of fees up to the discretion of Fred Taunton, city recreation director.

City administration had recommended that organizations that have routinely used the Memorial Park Building would have to sign an agreement to reimburse the city for clean-up or damages, utilities and other expenses that might come up. It was also suggested that one-time only groups should make a deposit in relation to their size when requesting use of the building. City Manager Elwin "Pinky" Alder said neighboring cities charge from $3 to $3.50 an hour for use of similar buildings and an additional fee to set up tables and chairs.

A spokesman from the Upland Homeowners Association and the Council in general felt the community should not be charged at all to use the community building. Mayor Abner B. Haldeman requested administration to keep detailed records on utilities and maintenance for the first year and use the first season to study the situation.

Council also approved an additional $2,500 for needed items in the new recreation building. These include a public address system, coat rack, coffee urn, dispensers, nets etc. Alder said the money wasn't budgeted but there was sufficient funds in the Parks and Recreation "reserve" fund. Councilman Harold Bailin said he wasn't aware such a "reserve" fund existed.

After some discussion it was deemed legally necessary to call for bids again on the development of Sierra Vista Park and Reservoir Park after many items had been eliminated to cut down the high cost. If the second set of bids are still too high, the city staff will consider doing the work themselves as originally discussed. Alder eliminated a number of costly items such as concrete sidewalks, wrought iron fences, handball courts, shuffleboard grillwork, elaborate sprinkling systems, two baseball diamonds, etc.

Since the parks are being developed on a force account, there's a deadline of next Fall for completion date and a specified dollar appropriation for the project.

Bailin commented, "We've got to move forward on the development of our parks." He suggested that city architects review development plans in the beginning to eliminate such fancy "extras" so work could move along more swiftly.

Because Councilman John McCarthy was absent Monday night the council tabled a resolution to change the Council meeting date to the first and third Tuesdays of each month at 7:30 p.m. In brief discussion Councilman George Gibson listed numerous reasons why he opposed this change and also questioned what brought it about. Councilman Max Hawkins said he requested it be put on the agenda because he and Alder have felt for a long time

Tuesday night was the better time to meet.

Council moved to adopt a resolution vigorously opposing the development of flood control land behind San Antonio Dam. Last August and September the county planning commission and Board of Supervisors unanimously denied an appeal by James Spears and Donald Magub to construct a recreational park behind the dam. On March 22 the plan is to be resubmitted to the county planners and with the exception of eliminating motorcycle trails, it is the same as the original.

The City of Upland expressed considerable concern about water pollution because of the proposed park seven months ago. Council instructed Alder to further investigate the possibility of having the city take over the flood control land currently operated by the federal Corps of Engineers.

A resolution supporting the creation and designation of the sheep mountain wilderness area in the Angeles and San Bernardino National Forests was unanimously approved. Council agreed unanimously to approve establishing an Improvement District for Portillo St. There was no discussion at the public hearing and 71 percent of the residents had signed petitions favoring the improvements. The lowest bidder was also awarded the bid for the Salina St./Fourteenth Ave. Improvement District.

The final revision of the "Alternate Truck Route Report" was approved by Council to be sent to the State Division of Highways as requested some months ago.

Norman L. Day, president of the Upland Homeowners Association, presented a letter from the Association to the council strongly opposing the construction of any more multiple family units in the city. The letter said in part, "We feel that the city is overbuilt with apartment and condominiums now. Upland has a greater percentage of its residents living in multiple units than ANY of the neighboring cities. We favor single family residences only, for the future of Upland."

In regard to the work of the Mayor's Advisory Committee the letter said, "It appears to the Homeowners that the committee is representing the 'Land Speculators' and not the residents, voters and taxpayers."

GALLERY OPENING -- Local art lovers came out in full force Sunday to be among the first to catch a glimpse of the many famous art masterpieces on display in the new Museum-Gallery at Chaffey College. This unique and special exhibit will run through March 25.

Smog Station Dedication Set

Donald M. Thomas, air pollution control officer, announced that San Bernardino County Air Pollution Control District will officially dedicate Upland's new smog monitoring station located in the Recreation Department office this morning at 9:30 a.m. Interested persons are welcome to attend.

'Operation Cheer' Gladly Going Out Of Business

"Operation Cheer", a nonprofit volunteer organization, which has operated locally since 1965 to send "cheer packages" "to our boys in Vietnam"--is out of business now that servicemen are coming home.

Henry F. Duran, President of the organization, said after the peace announcement by President Nixon and cease-fire, and the releasing of servicemen and POW's from North and South Vietnam, "This is a dream we have all been waiting for."

Duran said Operation Cheer would like to thank each and everyone who helped donate food coupons and who took part helping package boxes of goodies, letters, and etc. which were sent to our boys and POW's in Vietnam.

New Recreation Center Host To 50-Plus Club

Members of Upland's "Fun After Fifty" are having more fun than ever lately since they've moved in a new clubhouse in the Upland Recreation Center in Magnolia Park, 15th St. and San Antonio Ave., Upland.

The club donated homemade refreshments during the opening day festivities for the new building and held a potluck luncheon last Wednesday to christen the building. Bill Shourda, president of "Fun After Fifty", released the following year-round activities schedule for the club which will meet regularly at the Recreation Clubhouse in Magnolia Park at 1:30 p.m., the second Wednesday of the month (for regular business and social meetings). Meetings featuring potluck luncheons are held at noon the fourth Wednesday of each month. After the meal, entertainment is provided.

Freeway Landscaping To Continue

A last minute request by the city of Upland for changes to State Highway Department landscape plan for the San Bernardino Freeway will not delay the estimated $600,000 landscape project which will bring trees and shrubbery to the freeway from Benson to Grove Aves.

State Department of Highway representatives met with the Upland architectural commission recently and agreed to add approximately 100 pieces of shrubbery to landscape plans for an area of the freeway between Benson and Mountain Aves., according to Tom Harris, commission chairman.

The shrubbery addition will be accomplished via a change order to contract specifications which have already been drawn up. The contract should be awarded in June with work to begin in mid-July. The shrubbery will serve as a partial screen between the freeway and a miniature golf course located adjacent to the freeway.

The Upland City Council adopted a resolution at its last meeting to ask the state Highway Department to meet with the architectural commission for all future state highway projects in the city.

The landscape plans call for ground cover, shrubbery and trees to be planted from Benson to Grove.

New Planning Assistant Named Here

Bruce S. Emerick has been appointed planning assistant for the City of Upland. Emerick is from Ontario and is 23 years old. He's currently attending Cal Poly, Pomona, as a graduate student in urban planning.

Emerick's background degree from University of California at Santa Barbara was in geography. He recently gained an associate membership in the American Institute of Planners. He is in the California National Guard.

During the past five years Emerick has traveled extensively in Mexico and Central America. His interests include surfing, back-packing and photography.

Water Reclamation Center Dedicated

The new $3 million Carl B. Masingale Water Reclamation Plant, located at 2602 Archibald Ave. in Ontario, was dedicated recently by the Chino Basin Municipal Water District (CBMWD).

Masingale is president of CBMWD board. The new plant will treat secondary effluent from the Ontario-Upland Treatment Plant. The water will then be reintroduced to the underground basin to satisfy the requirements for Orange County, further down the Santa Ana River Basin. The water will also be used for recreation in the Prado Dam Basin before leaving the area. Ontario and Upland are also eligible to purchase the water for the cost of the treatment.

Funds for the $3 million plant were gathered from three sources including 55 percent funding from the federal Environmental Protection Agency, 25 percent from the state Clean Water Bond Act and 20 percent from local revenues.

Construction of the plant began in June, 1971. The facility was ready for manual operation in November of last year. Testing has been conducted since that time.

The plant is currently treating about 12 million gallons per day, with a design capacity of 20 million gallons. The addition of more filters could double the current capacity, a CBMWD spokesman said.

Norman Day Homeowners President

At the last Upland Council meeting Norman Day of Upland introduced himself as the new president of the Upland Homeowner's Association. He stated the purpose of the Association and offered any help to the Council during the coming year.

Day announced that the association is now holding a membership campaign and if successful, it will give the group more clout in its attempt to protect the "personal rights" and "Property interests" of Upland homeowners.

The Upland Homeowners Association currently has about 50 members. Day hopes the association will have from 200-300 members in the near future. Recently elected association officers include: Roy Maupin, vice-president, Franklin D. Boles, secretary, and Jay G. Vickers, treasurer.

The association executive board meets every month and a general membership meeting is held quarterly. Association policy is developed at these meetings, Day said. The association has representatives at all meetings of local government. In this way all members of the association are informed and represented on matters of concern to homeowners.

"We feel that the city council has not gone along with the wishes of the average homeowner, especially in the issue of zoning," Day said.

More specifically, he said that the city has allowed "land speculators" to bring "cheap-type" apartments and small homes into the city. He contends that such development lowers property values.

"I've always thought Upland was a pretty town. A fairly affluent town without a lot of junk houses. I feel it is a first class city and we are trying to prevent it from becoming a second class city," Day said.

On the issue of future development of north Mountain Avenue, Day said, "Our group is 100 percent behind single family (homes) on Mountain Ave."

WON'T YOU COME IN? -- A warm invitation is extended by Dr. Lorine Chase and Clifton King to come and discover the new Personal Development Center which seeks to help people grow through inner development and to find inner peace. Story on page 3.

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT CENTER

The House That Is Not A Home

By PATRICIA REID

The freshly painted, well landscaped white building that somewhat resembles a nice home on the southeast corner of Seventh St. and Sultana in Upland has a warm and homey atmosphere, but is far more than a mere residence. The Chase-King Personal Development Center seems to be going over in a big way in Upland if its first month of operation is any indication.

Dr. Lorlene Chase, a nationally-known clinical psychologist, and one of the three directors of the new Center, said approximately 215 new students were enrolled in the many various creative-type classes offered in the center. Dr. Chase has a nationally syndicated newspaper column, "Casebook of Dr. Chase," is listed in "Who's Who of American Women" and has had her own television show, been on the Art Linkletter "House Party" show.

Clifton W. King, executive director of the center, is a well-known lecturer-writer and specializes in lectures on transcendental meditation. Dr. Norman Snyder is in private practice of medicine in West Covina. He's shown continued interest in affairs of the community and state as a member of the District Attorney's Advisory Council, as well as founder and organizer of East San Gabriel Valley Hc-line, a crisis intervention center for youth, which contracts with nine other cities. Dr. Snyder has also served as City Councilman as well as Mayor of West Covina.

The stated goal of the unique center is to assist man in his personal growth. "We attempt to help individuals develop the creative side of themselves," said Dr. Chase. Dr. King explained that "many people would never need to see a counselor if they found themselves." He continued to say that with an increased awareness of themselves big things don't seem so big.

Dr. Chase described the center's students as "searchers" or "seekers." She said, "Seekers are at any age and there's no generation gap -- from 20 to 60 they're all very compatible." People from every walk of life are enrolled in classes and lectures -- doctors, lawyers, ministers and mostly professional people. Some students travel a long distance to make their classes at the center.

Dr. Chase quickly explained why the board decided to establish the center in Upland when both she and Dr. King are from the Los Angeles area. "So many of our clients and students were from the Pomona Valley area and asked us to open in this area that we decided to," she said.

Dr. King is an ordained minister and gives speeches to local churches. He also gave a series of meditation lectures in private homes in the Upland area before the center was located here.

More than 20 different classes are offered for four week sessions at present. There are 30 instructors who come to the center and offer different classes -- many of these are local teachers and skilled persons.

Dr. Chase did the decorating for the center and said, "I decorated it with antiques in traditional Victorian as I would have done in my own home." Many students requested that the center retain its "homey" and warm atmosphere. Although the four former bedrooms have been made into "classrooms" -- they're still very unantiseptic looking -- each is totally different and has a different mood.

Dr. King explained that his lectures stress the three-sided man and that's also what the center's courses are all about -- developing body, mind and spirit. Gloria Peltason teaches a course in Hatha Yoga which has been one of the most popular. Dr. King's lectures on Meditation-Transcendent Psychology and Prayer Power deal with development of the spiritual dimension and the rest of the courses have to do with training the mind.

Many different types of practical courses are offered to help people express their inner selves such as: guitar, creative writing, singing, needlepoint, metacology, ceramics, sculpture, hair care and grooming, painting and drawing. Other courses include Alpha-Cybernetics, The Art of Living, Theatre Dynamics Workshop, Women's Spiritual Awakening, "Express," etc.

Another major emphasis of the Chase-King Center is awareness -- to make people use the five senses and really be aware of what they're experiencing. Dr. Chase said the majority of people attracted to the center are affluent intellectuals or professional people in search for knowledge. "The Center appeals to people because unlike a university there are no prerequisites involved and you don't have to go through registration," Dr. Chase said.

Both Chase and King emphasize the medical and scientific basis of the center. "Those who are seeking a quick panacea or quick trip soon weed themselves out," Dr. Chase said.

Dr. King said that several local physicians are taking the classes and some have recommended them to their patients. On Feb. 24 an all day "dream seminar" was conducted at the center by Chase and King. Its purpose was as a workshop to provide a thorough review of current knowledge of the dream state and to teach participants to remember and understand dreams. This had a large turnout and was well received. Other dream seminars will be conducted every eight weeks and cost a total of $35 per session.

Dr. King said he emphasizes the philosophy of being your brother's keeper. As part of this idea some of the students who teach locally have volunteered to tutor slow learners at the elementary level at the center for no charge. Eventually the board of directors plans to offer trade school scholarships to high school dropouts with the funds taken in by the center.

For a brochure of classes or more information, call the center at 985-3716. In addition to classes, Dr. Chase is available for group and individual counseling upon appointment.

IN WITH THE OLD--Museum officials open boxes filled with "art treasures" that will go on display at the new Chaffey Museum-Gallery.

New Uplanders Club Plans Dinner-Meeting

The New Uplanders Club will hold a dinner-meeting, March 14 to honor the founders of the club.

Dinner will be at 8 p.m., following a social hour beginning at 7:30 p.m., at the Arbor Restaurant on Foothill Blvd. in Upland.

Following a short business meeting special recognition will be given to the club founders. Women who have lived in the Upland area for less than a year are eligible for membership and may attend the monthly luncheons. In addition to the luncheons and March founders dinner, the club offers other activities such as bowling, tennis, bridge, needlework, and golf.

Further information on the club may be obtained by calling Ms. Peggy Young, membership chairman at 985-8398.

Local Girl Scouts Goin' A-Hikin'

Local Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts from Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council, will pull on sturdy hiking shoes Saturday, March 17, for a "Walk For Palomar". The Scouts will solicit pledges on a per-mile basis, from friends and neighbors with all proceeds earmarked for a 4-wheel drive Jeep to be used at the new, multi-purpose camp site on Palomar Mountain.

Specific goals for the trek include a 10-mile hike for Juniors, 15 miles for Cadettes and 20 miles for Seniors--Juniors and Cadettes may hike beyond their "goals" if legs and stamina hold out. The jaunt will start from the Covina Scout House, following registration between 7 and 8 a.m.

New 'Power' Given To County Water District

New consideration for the formation of sewer assessment districts to provide sewer lines in Cucamonga and Alta Loma will be reviewed in the future by the Cucamonga County Water District if the district receives "substantial written requests and support" for such services.

This is the essence of a statement made public by the district's Board of Directors.

A couple weeks ago the board dropped plans to establish a sewer assessment district when a majority of district residents voiced their opposition to the plan. The following is the board's official statement:

"Because of the heavy written protest response received from property owners, despite very favorable bids relating to the construction and bond financing, the Board of Directors of the Cucamonga County Water District took action to abandon the assessment proceedings for the local sanitary sewer construction in what was designated Assessment District No. 8.

"Board policy for future local collector sewer assessment districts is that upon receipt of substantial written request and support by property owners, the Board will consider the formation of an assessment district for local collector sewer installations in the requested areas.

"The Board believes there is a need for sewers as well as a desire for said sewers by owners in many areas of the Cucamonga County Water District, and the board will take all steps to cooperate with those who do desire to have sewers installed.

Fashion Show, Brunch Slated For March 12

The traditional Fashion Show-Brunch being held Monday, March 12 in Griswold's GOSH Pavilion in Claremont promises to be the social fashion highlight of the season.

"West End women will be wooed by the wizardry of Werle at La Fiesta de la Primavera," commented one of the members of the Assistance League of Upland after visiting the new Werle Boutique on N. Rodeo Dr. in Beverly Hills.

Clay chicken pots from Mexico filled with colorful growing flowers will enhance the brunch tables and promote the Mexican motif chosen by decorations chairman, Ms. J. Garliepp Jr. The table favors being made by members of the Girls' Club of Cucamonga will be useful as well as vivid.

The Lynn Willis Trio will provide the musical background for the models and Perry, Mr. Werle's pet poodle, who participates in all of his shows.

Proceeds from the event, which commences with a social hour at 10:30 a.m., are designated to support the Girls' Club of Cucamonga and San Antonio Community Hospital Dental Center.

The Girls' Club of Cucamonga was inaugurated over 20 years ago "to create opportunities for the girls of the community to develop attitudes, skills and pride in themselves which will enable them to lead satisfying lives as responsible individuals."

A Creed for Today

I WILL TRY to discover some new beauty, some new sound or sight or thought that I have never heard nor seen nor contemplated. I will try to show my appreciation for this gift of beauty by giving in return some part of myself. I will make some small part of this world a little better than it was, and this undertaking may be so grand as the planting of a tree or so small as the picking up of a scrap of paper on the street.

I will not turn away from ugliness, in my environment or in the people with whom I share this earth. Sometimes, in ugliness there is beauty hidden, and where there is not, it lies within my power to make the ugly a little less so.

And so I will not respond to the hostility of man — or nature — with anger or vindictiveness. I will turn away ill-temper with a smile and hide only myself for not carrying an umbrella when it rains.

Our years on this planet are brief enough. Let it be said of me when I am gone: "He gave as much or more than he got. He may not have found beauty every day of his life, but he looked for it every day of his life."

Mayfair sells great meat for less money

And only Mayfair proves it by using the U.S. Government's shopping list to compare prices.

Any market can compare prices with its competitors' and come out the lowest by using a specially contrived list.

Only Mayfair proves that its prices are lower by using the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics list of standard food items.

It's the same list used by the Government to measure food prices as part of the cost of living.

For example, we took the BLS list and compared Mayfair's prices on the 20 some meat items with our competitors' prices. Same items, same week.

You can see the proof for yourself right here in the comparison chart.

Meat does cost less at Mayfair! And it is excellent meat: Tender, lean, flavorful.

That combination of high quality and the lowest cost is why, on discount prices, Mayfair really is more fair.

On A Musical Excursion Through Watts

"Wattstax" is a documentary, a concert on film, a movie about the black experience. It's "Shaft," it's "Superfly," it's all of these things. It's really none of them.

This unique cinema undertaking -- which just opened commercially in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Washington and other U. S. cities -- is already stirring sharp controversy among moviegoers. At first sampling, blacks love it. College students are bound to flock to it. White liberals feel they "should" like it. But middle America could ignore it -- in droves.

"Wattstax" was launched by a "black is beautiful" summer concert at Los Angeles' Coliseum last August. Almost 100,000 people -- most of them non-whites -- jammed this arena on the last day of the Seventh Annual Watts Festival to hear the "beat" of Isaac Hayes, the Staple Singers, Albert King, Carla Thomas, and other black performers.

'Doctor Faustus' At Chaffey College Here

Christopher Marlowe's "The Tragedy of Doctor Faustus" will be staged in the Chaffey Community College Little Theater, March 9-10 and March 16-17. This great Elizabethan's greatest play will be directed by Ralph Strane with curtain at 8:30 p.m. Strane has adapted the play to some 90 minutes of performance time.

The play pivots on the learned Faustus who pledges his soul to Lucifer in exchange for 24 years of infinite knowledge and limitless power.

The theme of a man entering into a contract with the Devil is old in folk lore. One version was conveyed in the Faustus legend which was printed in Germany and translated into English in Marlowe's time.

Young Kit Marlowe found in the concept of Faustus a rebel spirit akin to his own, the ultimate inspiration, the dream stuff for a classic. So he gave the man-and-devil theme a finality of expression that it had never had before, or was never to have again until Goethe came along.

He graced the theme with the majestic verse that Ben Jonson described as "Marlowe's mighty line." It was the heroic verse of Marlowe that cast its spell on another young contemporary, William Shakespeare, and helped immeasurably to steady the course of English poetic drama.

However, "Faustus" stands as the best of Marlowe whether for staging or reading.

Tickets at $1 are available in advance at the Little Theater box office from noon until 4 p.m., Mondays through Thursdays. Reservations may be made by calling 987-1737 or 822-7456, extension 276.

Beef Prices To Remain High

California retail beef prices will have to remain high -- and will probably go even higher -- if state cattle feeder operations are to justify a return on their investment.

That's the conclusion of a recent California Beef Council survey of a sampling of cattle feeders in different parts of the state. The survey substantiates that fat cattle must sell to packing houses at an average of 41 cents per pound through early 1973. Feeders set an average break-even price for that period at 39 cents per pound. By mid-year, feedlot owners say they must get another penny per pound, or a 42 cent average price, to break even on their investment. Prices would have to increase even more if feeders are to realize a justified six percent net return.

Other factors which could alter the present market picture include any new increases in grain prices, and continued adverse weather conditions. Many feeders reported heavy mud conditions in their lots due to recent heavy rains. The cattle get mired in mud, and will eat only enough to maintain current weights. On the average, a steer will gain 2 1/2 pounds per day during a 200-day feedlot stay. Thus, the number of days an animal refuses to gain fully eat will naturally postpone his readiness for market, diminishing an already somewhat scarce market supply.

A short supply of slaughter-ready cattle is the chief reason for the current up-sweep in California retail beef prices, maintains the Beef Council. The present crop of slaughter cattle was bought on last fall's high feeder market, the highest of all markets in 1972. The current high cost of feed grains also dramatically enters the price picture.

Actual survey figures for early 1973 breakeven prices were as high as $4.15 per pound, while other feeders responded as low as $3.65. Prices given for a justified 6 percent net investment return were as high as 43 cents and as low as $3.88. While most of the feeders polled said they had to have at least one penny more for cattle by mid-year, one participant said he expected no increase.

Feeders' responses were based on current and anticipated market considerations, any of which are subject to change at any time. All increases in live cattle prices will be reflected in higher wholesale and retail prices. The beef animal yields only about 45 percent of his live weight in retail cuts. That fact, coupled with the ever-increasing processing and middleman costs, explains why a one cent advance in the live cattle price means an approximate three cent per pound average increase at the retail level.

A Shrimp Dish From The Very Old South

The romantic old Southern town of Natchez, sitting high on a bluff overlooking the Mississippi River, is as well known for its good Southern food as it is for the beauty of its gardens and fine homes.

One of the famous dishes I had heard about and read about is Shrimp and Macaroni Casserole Eyrich. It has been a conversation piece for years and is always served to visitors and Natchezians at the old Eola Hotel.

Served in the glassed-in dining room overlooking the winding "great river," I was served it recently at a meeting of the Natchez Trace Parkway Commission.

The Eola chef did not, however, give me the recipe. It was given to me some years ago by Mrs. Gladys Seely, hostess at the Mississippi governor's mansion. Here it is:

Shrimp Casserole Eyrich

4 ounces macaroni
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup blanched slivered almonds (or halves)
2 tablespoons chopped green peppers

2 tablespoons chopped green onions
1 tablespoon finely chopped celery
1/2 teaspoon caraway seeds
1/4 cup enriched flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
1 cup cooked, clean shrimp
1/2 cup grated American cheese
Bread crumbs

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and rinse. While macaroni is cooking, melt butter or margarine in saucepan. Add almonds, green pepper, onion, celery, and brown lightly.

Stir in flour, salt, and caraway seeds. Add milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Fold in macaroni, shrimp, and cheese. Mix well until blended.

Pour into 1 1/2-quart casserole or individual casseroles. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and butter, or top with almond slivers and paprika. Bake in moderate oven set at 350-degrees F. for approximately 25 minutes. Four servings.

"'Tis distance lends enchantment to the view,
And robes the mountain in its azure hue."

Foothill residents are especially privileged on clear, smog-free days to have the magnificent panorama of stately mountain peaks perpetually as a backdrop view while they go about the daily chores of life in the cities.

A greater number of city-dwellers than ever before have suddenly caught the "back to nature" outdoorsy spirit and don't hesitate to "head for the hills" on Friday afternoons with the hordes of other mountain enthusiasts.

Maybe it's the pure, uncontaminated mountain air, or the pleasures of natural beauty instead of material entertainment --

Maybe it's the challenge of man against nature -- or the seclusion and privacy which the mountains offer, whatever the reasons, it's obvious that Southern California especially is experiencing a "mountain boom." Because of the sudden increase in popularity of hiking and other mountain sports the need for a locally centered, quick responding, trained search and rescue (S & R) team became apparent over a year and a half ago.

On August 4, 1971 under the direction of the West End Substation Commander Capt. Edward Noon, the 12-man Sheriff's West End Search and Rescue Team began to materialize.

Before the formation of the West End Search and Rescue Team, the San Bernardino County teams had to be called to rescues in the Mt. Baldy and Cucamonga Canyon mountain regions. "Because of the distance, it would take at least one and one half hours for the San Bernardino crews to be in Baldy," explained Sergeant Robert Ault of the West End team. "A really big advantage of our team is that all the members are on-duty deputy sheriffs and can be dressed and in Baldy in 30 minutes," he said. Naturally, time is always of the essence in emergency search and rescue operations so the time factor alone is very important.

Proof of need for such a team has been demonstrated by the fact that the new team has performed more search and rescues since they've been in existence than any volunteer team in any other area. Ault said they've completed a total of 85 rescue missions in the Mt. Baldy and Cucamonga Canyon areas, encountering all types of terrain, weather conditions and rescue problems. During a single weekend, Dec. 2-3, 1972, the team rescued six people in four separate operations in the Mt. Baldy area. Ault cited several similar incidents when the team was called out on missions one right after another.

He pointed out two factors which make the West End team particularly unique:

--Unlike traditional volunteer search and rescue teams which are comprised mostly of civilian personnel, the West End team members are all deputy sheriffs who've volunteered their off-duty time to training and S & R missions in addition to their duties as law enforcement officers.

--All 12 team members have an Advanced Red Cross First Aid card and three men are former medics in the armed services and five men have been members of special forces in the military service.

The West End S&R team members at present include: Sergeant Thomas Wickum, Deputies Dick Peterson, Gary Eisenbeisz, Wayne Loret, Joe Henry, Pat Klootwyk, Dick Lindner, Glenn Hill, Floyd Brown, Delvin Wiedman and Joseph Gasparin. Ault explained that the team members do not receive any additional pay for the hazardous and time consuming duty and chose to volunteer their time for extra training and call-outs.

The team normally averages at least one call-out every two weeks and a minimum of eight hours a month are spent on practice training sessions in the mountains on weekends. Ault said the men usually average about 50 hours a month overtime work for the rescue team. Every weekend six of the members are on standby and can't go out of town and must be able to respond to a call within five minutes. The rest of the team is subject to call anytime if they can be reached.

Ault said the rescue team is a joint effort involving all 45 deputies in the sheriff's substation because any deputies might have to fill in for a team member who gets a call while on patrol.

The team has access to two rescue helicopters -- however the type of terrain is not conducive to helicopters and they also can't be used a night when a lot of missions occur. Ault said the team members had trained with various S&R teams and that they participate in various specialized training programs whenever possible. The team has been praised for their professional skill and they are frequently called upon to assist in rescues all over the county where skills such as hover jumping and repelling from a helicopter are required.

The Sierra Range of the Los Angeles National Forest is labeled as snowier and colder than most others. "The Cucamonga Canyon wash areas are very unstable and difficult to hike in because there're few trails," Ault commented. He said that loose rocks in the Mt. Baldy area also make hiking dangerous. More searches are conducted for missing hikers during the summer months and more rescues take place in the snowy winter months. "We've never had a team member seriously injured and haven't lost anybody we've tried to rescue," Ault boasted. He said the typical rescue takes place late in the afternoon when hikers in Mt. Baldy slip on the icy slopes and fall a long distance.

In Ault's opinion the most serious rescue was a 22 year old Alta Loma man who was rescued at night from an icy Baldy slope a year ago after he'd been stranded there some six hours and had gone into the first stages of freezing. Although he suffered from severe exposure and shock he recovered and was most grateful to the rescue team.

"We've gotten about 10 thank-you notes from the 85 rescues," Ault said. While some families and individuals are most appreciative others just take it in stride and "expect" to be rescued. "The few that are very grateful for our help make all our efforts worthwhile," he said.

Last summer the team assisted in a massive rescue effort in Lytle Creek which lasted 15 hours to locate two lost Redlands girls who were stranded above the falls. The majority of rescues take place in darkness according to team members. Frequently long hikes into remote mountain areas are necessary to locate and rescue missing or stranded hikers.

This December the team rescued a hiker who fell from a 30-foot rock in a side area on Mt. Baldy and then slid another 30 feet on steep shale. The team had to use ropes to lower the victim due to loose rocks and shale.

In another incident the same day a 16 year old boy was hiking with two friends near the tunnels on Mt. Baldy Road and a rock fell and hit his shoulder. Rescuers had to lower him down a 25-foot ledge to get him out of the canyon. The same weekend the rescue team was called to Stoddard Canyon to locate two missing hikers who were transported out of the canyon by helicopter. The last incident that day occurred when an 11 year old boy fell down a hill about 50 feet near the Mt. Baldy Ski Lift and was picked up by the Forest Service and returned to the top of the lift when the S&R team flew him to Cable Airport and then to the hospital.

Despite the high number of rescues, Ault still retains a positive attitude and says that compared to the large number of people who do go up in the mountains the percentage of injuries is still small. As advice to a would-be hiker in the Mt. Baldy or Cucamonga Canyon area, Ault offered some suggestions -- "Never go hiking alone, especially in a very remote area, and always inform relatives or someone before leaving specifically where you plan to hike and approximately when you'll return."

Ault said it's also an excellent idea to make a list of the clothing and equipment you have when hiking and leave it with someone in case you have to be rescued. "A little bit of knowledge is dangerous in wilderness areas -- so frequently hikers underestimate the mountain and overestimate themselves," Ault cautioned. He advised all hikers to be informed on the conditions they might possible encounter and to be properly dressed and equipped before attempting a hike.

While the team is primarily financed by the county sheriff's department, the success of the team has been largely due to support by the community and service clubs which have donated much-needed specialized search and rescue equipment. The team members each purchased their own uniforms. Team members frequently put on slide demonstrations of rescue missions and are happy to speak to service clubs or other community organizations.

It's comforting to know that in this "you don't get somethin' for nothin'" day and age -- there exists a group of men who so willingly offer their skilled professional services to those in need without any financial compensation.

Their reward is in the knowledge of a job well done and an occasional thank you letter from a grateful victim.

VICTIM IN RESCUE HELICOPTER -- The Search and Rescue team frequently uses its two helicopters in lifting stranded hikers out of dangerous mountain situations. A litter on the helicopter's side is used to transport the victim.

OPERATION HOMECOMING

The first C-141 Starlifter carrying returnees to Travis Air Force Base, Calif., rolls to a stop to the delight of hundreds of spectators.

Air Force Colonel Ronald E. Byrne addresses a welcoming crowd at Scott Air Force Base, Ill., while flanked by two other returnees Captain John L. Borling, left, and Captain Thomas J. Barrett.

Lieutenant Commander Edward A. Davis holds up his puppy for enthusiastic spectators to pet. The dog was brought back from North Vietnam by Lt Cmdr Davis.

U.S. Air Force Photos

An Airlift Few Will Ever Forget

The Department of Defense has pulled all stops to provide for the comfort and welfare of the former prisoners of war being returned to their homes.

"The best treatment possible—sensitive, individualized processing and care" is the way it is worded in the statements on the philosophy of "Operation Homecoming," the operational nickname for the flow of the repatriated from the prison camps of North Vietnam and the jungle cages of the Viet Cong to the United States and their homes.

As part of this treatment, the Air Force has committed a sizeable portion of its C-141 Starlifter and C-9 Nightingale fleets. Between the two aircraft, they assure the safe and speedy return of the former prisoners in an immaculate medical atmosphere.

The C-141, the workhorse of the Military Airlift Command's transport aircraft, cruises at more than 500 miles an hour and normally is used to carry supplies, equipment, and troops on national and international routes. Teamed with gigantic C-5 Galaxy in the normal operations, the C-141s provide the Air Force with unequalled strategic airlift force.

In the Homecoming operation, the Starlifter has a different role. Wearing a big red cross painted on its 39-foot high, T-tail, the huge transport is reconfigured for aeromedical evacuation — not unlike a hospital ward with beds and seats for each of the returnees plus medical attendants and personal escorts.

In that configuration, the C-141 carried thousands of battle casualties to the states during the war years and had a major role in the reduction of the wartime mortality rate.

The C-9, also known as the Flying Hospital, has built-in appointments of a hospital ward, including an isolated special care area with controlled humidity and custom designed oxygen, decontamination, and ventilation systems.

The C-141 Starlifters are used on the international legs of the returnees route from Vietnam to Clark Air Base in the Philippines where they receive the initial processing. After preliminary medical evaluation to determine fitness for travel, the repatriated again board C-141s for the 10-hour flight to Hawaii and the five-hour flight to Travis Air Force Base, California.

East Coast and Midwest-bound returnees remain on the C-141s for major destination and the C-9 Nightingales provide the feeder-type flights to the other 29 final Army, Navy, and Air Force processing centers throughout the nation.

It's like what was stated earlier — the airlift of the former prisoners of war is part of the "sensitive, individualized processing and care"—the very best treatment possible.

EL/ED ENDCOTT

Crowds of well-wishers brave sub-freezing temperatures on the flightline at Scott Air Force Base, Ill., to cheer as the repatriated walk down the aircraft ramp.

Happiness is reflected in the face of returnee Air Force Master Sergeant William Robinson as he receives affectionate hugs from well-wishers at Scott AFB, Ill. Eight of the returnees walked into the crowd to personally thank them for coming out to meet them.

Scholarship Funds Presented To C. P.

A 93-year-old retired Pomona Valley school-teacher, Jessie Civile (Ms. L. H.), has personally presented scholarship and loan funds of $750 to Dr. Robert C. Kramer, president of California State Polytechnic University, Pomona.

Ms. Civile was spokesperson for a delegation of seven members of the Pomona Valley division of the California Retired Teachers Association (CARTA), which accompanied her to the campus. The group included Ms. Ruth Stickney of Upland, president of the local division; James F. Taylor of La Verne; and from Pomona, Adolph C. Kath, Ms. Stella Boly and Howard and Angeline Becker. Ms. Civile, who delivered a short presentation speech to the president along with the checks, has long been known in the Pomona area, both before and since her retirement.

Two hundred fifty dollars of the money presented by the CARTA delegation is an outright scholarship from the legacy of Clara May Post of Glendale, and $500 is for student loans. The $500 gift is the most recent among several similar contributions made to Cal Poly by the CARTA through its Laura E. Settle loan and scholarship fund.

Cal Poly first received a loan fund contribution from CARTA in 1960. With subsequent contributions, including the currently added $500, the fund now totals $5610.

Under the Laura E. Settle fund, $500 grants are given to the various state colleges and universities each year. The first grant of $500 was given to California State University, Humboldt in 1954.

To date 24 state colleges and universities have been given 57 grants totalling $27,000 to help students further their education. In 1971 Cal Poly reported that 246 had received loans totalling $14,159 from the Settle fund. Money repaid is re-loaned repeatedly.

In addition to being the current scholarship chairman of the Pomona CARTA, Ms. Civile has in the past served as membership chairman for 10 years and president for six years.

Income Tax Help Offered

Willing hands will be training this Saturday to prepare themselves to assist people fill out their income tax forms. Mt. San Antonio College Community Services and the Business Education Department are co-sponsoring the two seminars to be held in the Technology Building, 28A-103 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. both days.

The Voluntary Income Tax Assistance program (VITA), in its third year on the MSAC campus, is designed to train students and community residents in the fine points of preparing federal income tax forms. Upon completion of the course, instructed by members of the Internal Revenue Service, the students will help the elderly, financially handicapped people in the area prepare their tax forms. Interested persons may register for the courses by calling the Community Services Office, Ext. 300 or 351.

The seminar program will cover such subjects as - what medical expenses are deductible; what are retirement income credits; what is an itemized deduction; what is taxable income and who should file. Participants are advised to bring their own sack lunch as the college dining facilities will be closed and lunch breaks will be too short to travel off campus.

Milk--Variety Counts

"Things are seldom what they seem Skim milk masquerades as cream."
Act II, H.M.S. Pinafore
Such was the feeling of Gilbert and Sullivan

when they wrote "Pinafore" and perhaps a confusion exists today about milk in the same way.
There are many
"milks" and much consumer misunderstanding about what the difference really is. There are essentially five "milks" in the dairy case, according to the Southern California Dairy Council.

Extra-rich milk usually has 4.1 percent or more butterfat content to give it an extra measure of richness and a creamy quality.

Regular whole milk in California has 3.5 per cent butterfat and is generally fortified with vitamin D.

Low-fat milk has 2.10 per cent butterfat and sometimes non-fat solids are added to give it
"body" along with flavor and nutritive fortifications.

has virtually all butterfat removed and is then fortified with vitamins A and D, and non-fat milk solids are often added as with low-fat milk. Buttermilk starts out as non-fat milk which then as a lac-tic acid-producing bacteria added along with butter granules and salt, yielding the distinctive flavor.

Confusion over calories is another matter.
The following chart shows the relationship of these milk varieties and calories in an eight ounce glass. Figures are all approximate and may vary according to brand.

Extra rich 175
Regular 160
Low-fat 145
Non-fat 95
Buttermilk 90-125
As a comparison, U.S.
Department of Agriculture nutrition reports show 12 ounce servings of fruit flavored sodas have 170 calories, cola types have 145 calories, beer has 150 calories, A 1/2 ounce serving of table wine has 85 calories.

It is because of the variety of "milks" available, its pleasant taste and nutritional benefits that the California Milk Advisory Board's new theme is "Milk Has Something for Every Body." An eight ounce glass of homogenized milk provides a person with approximately 20 per cent of daily calcium needs; 15 per cent of protein needs; 30 percent of riboflavin; 8 per cent of niacin equivalents; 6 per cent of thiamine; 6.5 per cent of vitamin A; 5.5 per cent of Vitamin C, and numerous important trace materials.

Gasoline Bill: More Than Price

Among those bills, bills, bills, you might find a staggering one for the gasoline consumed by your car last month.

If your gasoline costs
suddenly rise way above normal, points out the National Automobile Club, chances are you're neglecting some vital steps in car care and perhaps your driving leaves
something to be desired,
as well.

Car adjustments that have been put off for even a short time can waste much gasoline. So have a competent mechanic
check your carburetor, ignition points, ignition timing, and your sparkplug gaps. Correctly adjusting such parts can cut down on your gasoline consumption considerably.

Saving gasoline also depends on how you handle your car. Do you step on the starter and pound endlessly on it if the engine fails to start up immediately? Better restrain yourself so as to let the carburetor clear and settle.

Wildly racing your engine after it has caught on also defeats your purpose. To allow for the necessary lubrication of your engine, you need to run it slowly for a while.
And take care in the way
you start out on the road.
Don't thunder off in a cloud of waste but start our smoothly and slowly.

Gasoline burns faster at a faster pace. So by all means control that pace, make it steady and comparatively slow. Anticipate traffic situations to avoid sudden stops because such stops waste
the momentum that you have used gasoline to build up.

Your actions immediately following the parking of your car, reminds NAC, can have quite an effect on gasoline consumption. There are those motorists who leave the motor idling. Don't follow suit. Do turn that motor off to save gasoline.

Fast driving or reckless driving in general proves a real hindrance to cutting down your gasoline bills. Not only does such driving cost you gasoline but it can also cost you your life.
